

19/5/20

Fish in the Water

A regal angel fish keeps up to its name. The interchanging bands of striking colours on its body and fins give it a majestic appearance.

The colourful clown anemone fish, also called a clownfish, shares amazing friendship with the anemone, another sea creature.

Pigmy goby is the smallest fish in the world.

A puffer fish can fill its stomach with large amounts of water and can blow itself up to several times to scare away enemies.

The stonefish, which looks like a rock, is one of the most poisonous fish in the world.

Read the descriptions of these fish and identify them.

1. It carries its eggs in a pouch in the male's body. Seahorse
2. This fish does not lay eggs but gives birth to live babies. Hammer headed Shark
3. It is a fish notorious for its razor-sharp teeth and its capacity to reduce any unfortunate animal into bits (that might fall its prey), within minutes. Piranha
4. It does not have scales and possesses a strong, hollow, leading spine-like ray on its dorsal and pectoral fins. Catfish

Hammer-headed Shark

Catfish

Seahorse

Piranha